Under stARTers orders

DON'T wobble off the road if you spot some kaleidoscope resin fibreglass horses appearing all around Co Kildare next year. They will mark the opening of the new Curragh and will benefit the Irish Injured Jockeys Fund and Sensational Kids.

Under stARTers orders will be temporarily located in key locations in May and June and artists will be working with personalities from the world of sport and entertainment who will try their hand at decorating the 20 life-sized statues.

Supporters can take the opportunity to sponsor individual horses with the plan to then auction them all off in advance of the Dubai Duty Free Irish Derby in

Well they said racing would be different at the Curragh next year

June with the proceeds benefiting both charities

Karen Leigh, founder and CEO, Sensational Kids CLG said, "We are delighted to partner with the Irish Injured Jockeys and the Curragh Racecourse. This will benefit the children who attend our early intervention services and funds raised will go towards our hippotherapy and subsidised early intervention therapies for children with additional needs."

Up Monaghan at Wolverhampton

THERE was a happy group of owners celebrating at Wolverhampton last Saturday when the Anthony McCann-trained Spiral Galaxy won up and some of us are involved in the Shabra Charity, founded by Oliver and Rita Shah. I'm one of the directors and Mairead Liston is
